boxes of letters are received in the Post not sealed, that is to say, the box is not with sealing wax, but there is no impression of a seal.
Attention of boxholders is called to the necessity of carefully sealing such boxes with unobscurable seal, and of sending a Receipt with them. The omission of this precaution leaves a doubt as to whether the contents of the box ever reached the office; the omission of the former, as to the part of them might not have been about the sake of the Postmen &c.
